

International Journal of Molecular Sciences

Due to the developing health and economic situation across the globe, most academic conferences have been cancelled or turned into virtual conferences. To improve academic exchanges and provide our best support to the academic community, the International Journal of Molecular Sciences has set up a special grant to encourage innovation in global academic exchanges.

The winners (two awardees) will each be granted 2500 CHF. The grant should be used to promote academic exchange, in whatever form.

2021 ACADEMIC CONFERENCE GRANTS

Eligibility and Requirement:

- Related associations or academic conference organizers in the fields of biochemistry and molecular and cellular biology;
- Planning to organize online or offline academic conferences during the period of 1 June 2021 to 31 May 2022;
- Conference attendees over 500;
- Successfully organized at least five academic conferences.

Required Application Documents:

- Information on previous conferences (website, number of participants, organizer, address and date);
- Information about upcoming conferences, workshops or similar events (website, introduction of chair, program if available, and sponsors if available);
- Brief introduction of the association, and if the organizer is a scholar, provide the scholar's curriculum vitae and list of publications;
- Cover letter (describe the importance of your conference, why you are eligible to receive this award, your plan to use the grant, etc.).

Accordingly, we request the winners acknowledge the grant in their conference brochure, on their website, and in their opening/closing remarks. Meanwhile, if the conference has the need to publish conference papers, IJMS should be given priority.

Please send the application to the IJMS Marketing Team <ijms-marketing@mdpi.com> before 31 March 2021. The winners will be informed via email and announced on the IJMS web page by the end of May 2021.
